Written by Dave Walsh Saturday, 12 October 2013 17:31 - Last Updated Saturday, 12 October 2013 22:23

GLORY 11 Chicago goes down tonight, live on Spike TV at 9pm Eastern in the United States, or you can watch the PPV stream live on LiverKick if you are out of the US! This is a huge deal for Kickboxing and a huge card to go along with the occasion. Essentially, this is not something that you want to miss. So join us tonight at 9pm Eastern time to watch GLORY 11 live. I'll be tweeting from @LiverKickdotcom and will be updating Facebook as well, but feel free to discuss the event within the comments section as well.

The GLORY 11 undercard will NOT be airing live, but instead GLORY will be posting it in two weeks to their website for free, much like they did with GLORY 10.

Written by Dave Walsh Saturday, 12 October 2013 17:31 - Last Updated Saturday, 12 October 2013 22:23

- GLORY 11 CHICAGO

- Heavyweight Finals: Rico Verhoeven (R3 Dec.) Daniel Ghita -- Wow, just wow. Tremendous action from both men, back and forth. Every round was insanely close, with Ghita probably winning the first round and Rico taking the 2nd and 3rd. Tremendous action, with Rico looking better than he's ever looked before.
- Tyrone Spong (R2 TKO) Nathan Corbett -- Wow, both guys just came in looking to lay some heavy leather. Lots of body work with Tyrone's body punches visibly doing damage to Corbett in R1. Spong just absolutely floored Carnage in R2, but Carnage got back up. A second knockdown was all that she wrote, as the ref stopped the bout. Wow, Tyrone.
- Joseph Valtellini (R3 TKO) Karim Ghajji -- Really exciting fight between both guys. Very solid, technical affair that saw both men exchanging and looking extremely solid. Joe came up with a rather incredible series of strikes in R3 to put Ghajji down. Great, great fight.
- Heavyweight Reserve Bout: Errol Zimmerman (R3 TKO) Hesdy Gerges -- Errol Zimmerman came into the fight in great shape and looked focused, which is all you can ask for from Errol. He knocked Gerges down hard, but Gerges fought back to his feet. Round 2 saw Gerges control most of the ring and action, but Zimmerman flattened him in R3, only for him to fight back to his feet. Zimmerman scored one last knockdown and made a huge statement.
- Heavyweight Tournament: Daniel Ghita (R1 KO) Anderson Silva -- Wow, Daniel Ghita is super focused with his new trainer. Ghita was favoring using his hands over his kicks, but set up the right hook with a left body kick that put Braddock down for the count. The finals is Ghita vs. Rico!
- Heavyweight Tournament: Rico Verhoeven (R3 Majority Decision) Gokhan Saki -- Saki fans are going to be really upset over this one, but GLORY's flash knockdown rule played a huge factor here, and yes, it was a knockdown. Rico knocked Saki down in R1 almost immediately, with Saki protesting and threatening the ref (which he should have been DQ'd for, honestly). Rico controlled the rest of the round. Rico controlled R2 for the most part, but Saki landed some huge shots near the end which didn't put Rico down. Rico should have, but he didn't. You could argue that Saki gets that round because of that. Then R3 was mostly controlled by Rico, gaining him the HUGE win. What an upset. Very proud of how much Verhoeven has advanced.

- GLORY 11 Chicago Undercard

- Sergei Kharitonov (R3 UD) Daniel Sam
- Danyo Ilunga (R1 TKO) Michael Duut
- Saulo Cavalari (R3 UD) Filip Verlinden
- Steve Moxon (R3 KO) Reece McAllister
- Gabriel Varga (R3 UD) Jose Palacios
- Troy Sheridan (R3 Dec.) Michael Mananquil
- Maurice Greene (R3 UD) Yang Rae Yoo
- Aaron Swenson (R2 KO) Billy Rose
- Kyle Weickhardt (R3 UD) Quartus Stitt
- Ian Alexander R3 SD) Austin Lewis
- Axel Mendez (R3 UD) Jordan Weiland

GLORY 11 Chicago Live Results and Discussion

Written by Dave Walsh Saturday, 12 October 2013 17:31 - Last Updated Saturday, 12 October 2013 22:23