We've been talking to the fine folks at Yokkao and if you haven't noticed the banner above or the video to the left, there is a big event coming up this month from them featuring Andy Souwer vs. Dzhabar Askerov and a whole lot more. They are going to offer the event via a live stream and they want to make sure that they are providing you, the fans, with the right value for your money.

Here at LiverKick we've been hosting events for a while, everything from It's Showtime to SuperKombat to Glory events and we've seen the prices vary from $10 up to $20 for the Glory World Series New Year's Eve mega-event. We know that you guys are big fans of this stuff or you wouldn't be here and that you are willing to put your money where your mouth is if the event is right. We wouldn't support something if we didn't feel that it was going to be worth your time and money and we feel that Yokkao Extreme 2013 will absolutely be worth your time and money.

So what would you be willing to pay to watch this event and support Yokkao so they can continue booking great events like this? Before you say "free," remember that they are spending a lot of money to pay for a production crew as well as the bandwidth to get the event out. They've assured us that they are really going to ramp things up to ensure that this is a HD, smooth stream no matter the amount of fans watching.
