This week's big show takes place on Thursday at Rajadamnern Stadium with a card headlined by another fight between Saeksan Or. Kwanmuang and Singthongnoi Por. Telakoon. All of their fights have been all out wars and this one shouldn't be any different. Both Saeksan and Singthongnoi are in super exciting fights every time. Singthongnoi won their last fight, which was a grueling clinch battle. Since then, Saeksan drew with Pettawee and Singthongnoi was involved in one of the top fights of last year against Kongsak, which he lost.

Right under the main event on Thursday, Pakorn is back in action. Pakorn is another fighter that's always fun to watch. His last few fights in Thailand haven't been against the elite and that continues here. Maybe a win here could get him another top fight. I'd love to see him fight Saeksan or Singthongnoi. Also returning is Saengmanee Tor. Tienpo, the teenage phenom, in his first fight since his win streak finally came to a halt against Superlek Wor. Sungprapai in December.

All in all, Thursday's show is stacked.

Friday sees a big rematch between Pornsaneh and Kwankao. Pornsaneh stopped Kwankao the last time they fought and comes off another stoppage win over Yokvithaya Phetsimean on February 7, so he's fighting just 10 days after his last fight. Also on the card is a solid fight between Pongmongkol and Saksuriya. Ponmongkol is one to watch and scored an impressive stoppage via knees to the body in his last fight against Saengmorakot in January.
