

Watch GLORY 10 Los Angeles Live on LiverKick

Written by Dave Walsh

Tuesday, 24 September 2013 12:53 - Last Updated Monday, 30 September 2013 00:13

GLORY 10 Los Angeles is quickly-approaching, which for Kickboxing fans is a very good thing. Of course, the only caveat for fans in the United States is that this is GLORY's last non-Spike TV event for a while, which means that it will be airing on CBS Sports Network, but that airtime is apparently 12:00am on Monday morning due to it being football season. For those of you that still want to watch GLORY 10 live, well, you aren't out of luck, you are in luck. Why? Because your favorite Kickboxing site, LiverKick.com, will be carrying the event live on internet PPV.

As always, purchasing the event not only supports your favorite fighters and the GLORY organization, but supports LiverKick.com as well. We know that watching events on a computer can sometimes be a bit of a bummer, but we've watched these through hooking up a HDMI cable to a TV and it really does turn out fantastic.

If the embedded player isn't working for you, the purchase through us is still valid and you can watch it here; <http://gloryworldseries.com/en/glorytv>